Oilers still fielding calls for top pick

NHL draft. GM Steve Tambellini says it would have to be for 'something significant' for the team to trade first overall pick

The Edmonton Oilers fielded more calls Thursday about their first overall pick in the NHL draft, while Columbus talked of sticking with the second selection or moving down.

Oilers GM Steve Tambellini's socks had not been blown off by the time he met the media the day before Friday's draft.

"It would have to be something significant ... that makes sense for me to give up the No. 1 pick," said Tambellini.

"Winning the lottery puts us in another spot for an incredible piece that will bring us forward. And I'm very comfortable, if it stays as is, we're going to make our pick."

The offers he had received were "obviously not good enough to make me really think about discussing with our staff," he said.

"It may not come," he added. "And I'm totally fine with that. We have an asset coming to this organization to join (Ryan) Nugent-Hopkins, (Taylor) Hall, (Jordan) Eberle, (Magnus) Paajarvi and (Jeff) Petry and some of the young (defencemen) that are coming also. It's an exciting time."

This year's crop

Friday's draft is top-heavy in defencemen, with Russian Nail Yakupov offering some flash among some promising European forwards available. There are also some intriguing goaltenders.

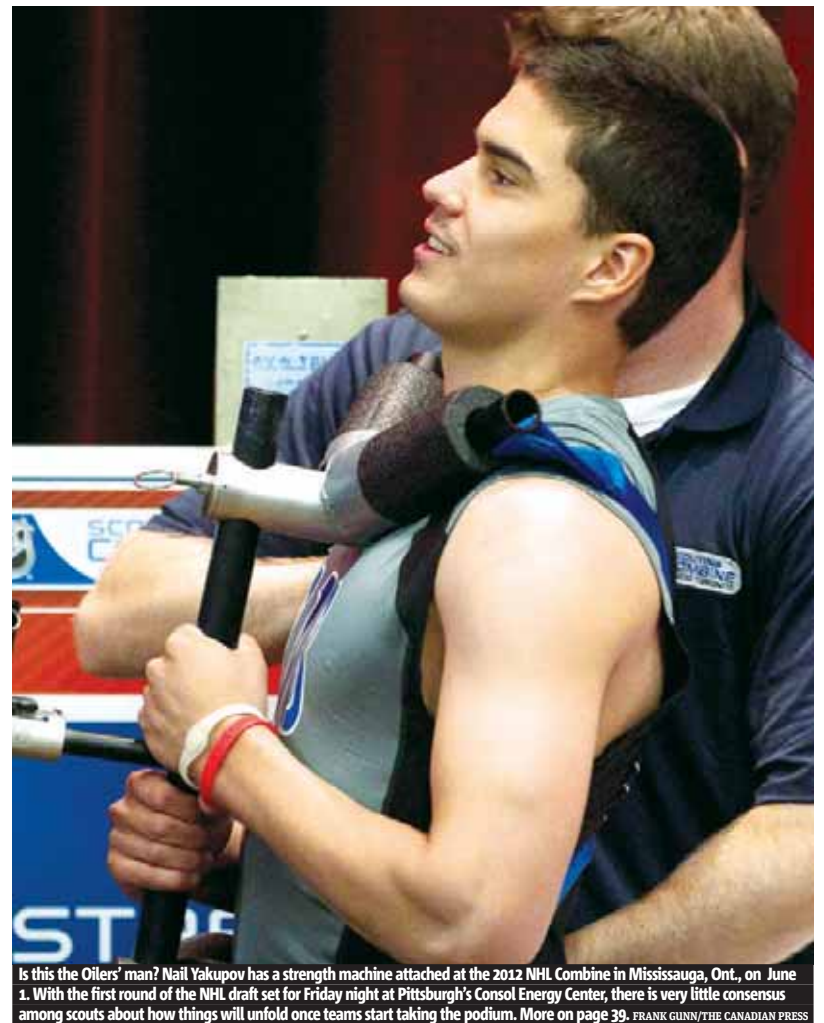

about whether the Oilers had decided on who that might be.

All he would say is his scouting braintrust has been "very consistent with their direction."

With the first round of the NHL draft set for Friday night at Pittsburgh's Consol Energy Center, there is very little consensus among scouts about how things will unfold once teams start taking the podium. Final report

Late-night transit gains more support

Those pushing for late-night transit in Edmonton have had another supporter hop on board.

A final report from Responsible Hospitality Edmonton on the Night Ride pilot project will be in front of a council committee on Wednesday.

Program manager Angela Turner said the group wants more than simply a weekend, late-night Whyte Avenue bus service though, and is supportive of options outlined by Edmonton Transit officials earlier this year.

The proposed network includes five routes from downtown and Old Strathcona to Century Park, Mill Woods, Capilano, Clareview, Eaux Claires and West Edmonton Mall, operating through the night until regular service begins.

That — and other phases of the $6.5 million plan — could be discussed during 2013 budget deliberations, and Turner hopes something comes of it.

"Because of our work, we see a real need for Friday and Saturday nights," she said. "So even if there was a decision to not be able to fund seven nights a week, we'd like to see two."

A total of 1,943 passengers took Night Ride, offered Fridays and Saturdays Jan. 6 to April 14. Patrons were picked up on Whyte Avenue then dropped off in the university area or at Southgate Transit Centre where taxis were waiting.

"It was useful, it was successful, people used the service, people's behaviour was good on the service," said Turner.

Paying for transit could be as easy as using your cellphone or bank card, and simply verifying your transaction to pay for it later, says a city report released Thursday. METRO FILE

Transit smart fare won't need smart card: Report

Payment plan. System doesn't require 'the smarts being within the card,' transit official says

heather.mcintyre@metronews.ca

Using a bank card or cellphone to pay fares on Edmonton Transit could be an option in the future, says a new city report.

Still a smart fare system based on distance travelled, "open" payment differs from a smart card because it is an account-based system where fare transactions are conducted and stored in a computer, rather than on the actual card the customer uses.

"You can have an account with us and yes, you can get a smart card from us, but you also could use your bank card, you could use other methods," said Patricia Waisman, director of transportation services with Edmonton Transit.

Payment could be taken out of an account or a bill could be sent, she added.

"It's good news," said Coun. Don Iveson. "The new technology makes things flexible for customers."

The report will be before a council committee Tuesday, and Iveson would like to see it made a priority.

"Timing is becoming more urgent," he said.

As chair of the Capital Region Board Transit Committee, Iveson said there is a growing hunger for a regional smart fare system, which would provide a seamless experience for traveling in and around the Edmonton area.

The downside, though, is the cost.

"Unfortunately it's not cheap," said Waisman. "But certainly ... when we can find the money, we would certainly love to be able to do that."

Cost comparison

- A smart-card system in 2008 was pegged at $22.5 million, rising to $25.9 million in 2012.
- To implement an account-based system in 2012, it would cost $23.9 million; $30 million including upgrades to fare boxes and other requirements.
- Iveson said other cities have partnered with banks and financial institutions to help cover some of the cost.

Spills bad for Alberta pipeline image: Pipeline boss

Canada's pipeline boss says he expects two recent leaks in Alberta will provide ammunition to opponents of the Keystone XL and Northern Gateway projects.

An Enbridge pumping station spilled 230,000 litres of heavy crude near Elk Point northeast of Edmonton last Monday. And a pipeline owned by Plains Midstream Canada leaked up to 475,000 litres of light sour crude into the Red Deer River in central Alberta on June 7.

Industry figures show at least 3.4 million litres of hydrocarbons have leaked from pipelines in the province every year since 2005.

That is likely something that environmental groups trying to stop both projects will latch on to, suggests Doug Bloom, chairman of the Canadian Energy Pipeline Association and president of Spectra Energy.

"I think any kind of incident, no matter how small, is going to be picked up by those who are going to oppose any kind of energy development, and they'll try and use it as a rationale for not doing it," Bloom said Thursday after attending a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

"Any spill right now is going to be bad timing. There's such a focus now with Gateway and with Keystone XL and other projects going through regulatory review. Any time there's any kind of an incident no matter how large or how small, it's going to be prominent."

Bloom said gone are the days when pipeline companies rarely made the news and operated "under the radar."

"Over the last year or two, like it or not, we seem to find ourselves prominent in the news and in some cases for the wrong reasons."

Accused in U of A shootings not allowed to contact parents

Routine order.

Prosecutor says it's common to forbid contact with people who are considered important witnesses

Next court date

- Travis Baumgartner, 21, made his first court appearance in Edmonton on Thursday and was remanded in custody. His next court date is scheduled for July 5.

An armoured-car guard accused of gunning down three of his crewmates during a robbery at the University of Alberta has been forbidden to have any contact with a long list of people, including his parents.

Most of the people on the no-contact list are expected to be witnesses, said chief Crown prosecutor Steve Bilodeau, who handled Baumgartner's brief court appearance personally.

"It's actually a pretty routine order with important witnesses," Bilodeau said outside court. "While he's in remand, he can't phone them or contact them in any way."

The order also includes several of Baumgartner's friends and co-workers, as well as any employee of G4S Canada, the security company that he was working for at the time of the robbery.

Police say Baumgartner, 21, was one of five armed guards who were loading a bank machine at the university's HUB mall and residence just after midnight June 15 when shots rang out.

Eddie Rejano, 39, Michelle Shegelski, 26, and Brian Illesic, 35, died.

Matthew Schuman, a fourth guard who was badly wounded, opened his eyes last weekend and squeezed his wife's hand before he slipped back into unconsciousness. He remains in critical condition with what have been described as head injuries.

Baumgartner faces charges of first-degree murder, attempted murder and robbery with a firearm, but didn't enter a plea Thursday.

He wore the standard blue prison jumpsuit and was handcuffed. Security in the courtroom included four guards. The normal complement is two. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Art. Alley dumpsters latest gallery for Edmonton

Edmonton's newest art gallery opens Saturday in a downtown alley, and the canvas is anything but ordinary.

Photographs will be permanently wrapped on seven dumpsters sitting in what has become known as the Alley of Light, from Enterprise Square on 103 Street to Beaver Hills Park on 105 Street, half a block north of Jasper Avenue.

"It's to animate the space and to hopefully increase community engagement with the space, and ownership of the space," said Toscha Turner, summer program co-ordinator for Edmonton On The Edge, the group behind the revitalization.

The call for photos was put out a month ago, and guidelines included using a technique called painting with light. Five photos were chosen by a panel of judges and another two will be voted for Saturday.

Turner said the idea is loosely based on the Eyes on the Alley project initiated in the 118 Avenue and 82 Street area last summer to reduce crime and graffiti. HEATHER MCINTYRE/METRO

Old stuff gets new life at reuse centre

Dumps. City has established its first centre where residents can drop off unwanted items and others can snatch them up for free

Details

- Eco Stations take small appliances, BBQs, lawn mowers, tools and mattresses.
- The stations are open Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

MAURICE TOUGAS

Every day, Edmontonians dutifully work their way to one of the city's three Eco Stations where they hand over everything from household hazardous wastes to outdated computers.

But amid the toxic trash, plenty of reusable items are discarded — chairs, sofas, tables, TVs, golf clubs — that are too good to take to the landfill.

Instead of trucking the stuff away, the city has established its first "reuse area" at the Ambleside Eco Station on Ellerslie Road and 147 Street.

Better yet, it's all free. Residents are welcomed to drive up, prowl around and take what they want.

"There is everything from exercise bikes to couches and tables to golf clubs, just about anything you might find in an average household," said Connie Boyce of waste management services.

Tony Colangelo, manager of the Eco Station, said staff checks out appliances by plugging them in briefly, but don't look for any guarantees.

He said they get a lot of sofa sets, many of which are in excellent condition.

The Ambleside Eco Station is the newest in the city, and the only one that had room for a reuse centre.

The next eco station, planned to open on the north side next year, will have a reuse station, as will all further stations, she said.

The city is holding an official opening Friday, although the centre has been in operation since April 30th.

Tony Colangelo and Carissa Lutz display some of the hundreds of golf clubs available free for the taking at the Ambleside Eco Station. MAURICE TOUGAS/METRO

New cancer research pinpoints what works best

University of Alberta researchers have developed a method of pinpointing what drugs work best with specific types of cancer, which could result in longer survival rates.

Dr. Jack Tuszyński and his team looked at thousands of patients with various types of cancer, and found "disorganized" cancers are more difficult to treat and result in lower survival rates.

Research indicates physicians could use a mathematical equation to determine how disorganized a cancer is, allowing doctors to use drugs that attack the more complex cancers specifically.

"If you examine the cancer cells, you can make a prediction of what sort of chance there is of surviving this type of cancer," said U of A's Dr. Jack Tuszyński.

"Once you know this, you can target the key hubs in the network for cancer treatment. It's quite exciting."

So far, they have accumulated information on only 14 of 200 known types of cancer, but they are some of the big ones — lung, melanoma, pancreatic and prostate, for example.

The research is more important to medical researchers at this time, but the next step will be for drug development.

"We hope that once we identify the right target, we can dramatically improve outcomes, maybe by a few years."

HEATHER MCINTYRE

Summer is upon us, which means warm weather and likely some sweaty days.

Thankfully, two University of Alberta researchers have determined cotton as the best fabric for warding off stinky sweat molecules.

Textile science professor Rachel McQueen teamed up with chemistry scientist James Harynuk to hand out two specially sewn T-shirts to 18 people to wear during 20 workouts over 10 weeks.

Three fabrics — polyester, cotton and cotton treated with an antimicrobial finish — were tested.

The armpits were then cut out, put in vials and tested two ways.

McQueen said the sniff test-

Rachel McQueen,

ers voted cotton less smelly, which is also what scientific results showed.

"With polyester, over multiple wash and wear cycles, we saw the number of molecules would drop and the abundance of the molecules would drop, but there were still a lot," said Harynuk. "So the washing was not as effective in removing the smelly molecules as it was with the cotton."

The antimicrobial finish had little effect, he added.

Both McQueen and Harynuk said they would like to do more controlled testing, eventually resulting in a garment that can be washed less often.

Indonesian air-force plane crashes into housing complex

Jakarta. Aircraft built in 1958 rips through houses in ball of fire, killing passengers and residents

An Indonesian air-force plane slammed into a military housing complex and ignited a huge fireball Thursday while trying to land in Jakarta, killing all seven people aboard as well as two toddlers and their nanny.

The pilot, co-pilot and five trainees aboard the Fokker F-27 were on a routine training flight when it crashed into houses in a neighbourhood about 1.5 kilometres from the runway on which it was trying to land, Indonesian military spokesmen said.

Raging orange flames jumped several metres into the air and a huge column of black smoke billowed over the eight homes damaged in the crash in eastern Jakarta.

Twelve people were injured, two of them critically.

"I could hardly believe my eyes. There was a military plane that crashed and hit the houses," said Hendra, a resident of the air-force complex who goes by only one name. "At once, the situation turned into chaos. All the residents fled in panic. Women and children were screaming hysterically."

He said he helped at least five injured people, mostly with burns, to a nearby air-force hospital.

Six of the people aboard the plane died instantly, and the co-pilot died later while being treated at a hospital, air-force spokesman Rear Admiral Azman Yunus said.

The plane broke into two parts as it ripped through the houses and plummeted to the ground, said air-force spokesman Col. Agus Sasongko Jati. The three people killed on the ground were two children in one of the houses, aged two and six, and a woman who worked as their caretaker, he added.

The aircraft, which was built in 1958 and has been used by Indonesia's air force for the past 35 years with 14,900 flight hours, was declared airworthy before it took off for its second training flight of the day under clear skies.

"It seemed that the pilot was trying to land on a nearby paddy field," Jati told The Associated Press. "But it was not clear whether it was because of an emergency."

Running text on TVOne said the black boxes of the ill-fated plane have been discovered, but Jati did not confirm.

The crash comes after a Russian Sukhoi passenger jet crashed last month into an Indonesian volcano during a demonstration flight for potential buyers, killing all 45 people aboard.

Paraguay congress votes to impeach president

Farmers protest in Paraguay. JORGE SAENZ/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The lower house of Paraguay's opposition-controlled congress voted Thursday to impeach leftist President Fernando Lugo for his role in a deadly clash involving landless farmers, adding to the South American nation's political turmoil and prompting frightened residents of the capital to shutter businesses and pull children from school.

Lugo immediately appeared on national television and promised to face a possible impeachment trial "with all its consequences," dismissing rumours that he might resign.

The lower house approved the impeachment trial by a vote of 76-1. The motion now goes to the opposition-controlled Senate, where the trial would be held if approved.

There was no immediate word on when the Senate might vote on whether to impeach Lugo and force him to face what is known in Paraguay as a "political trial."

Critics blame Lugo for the violence that erupted last week when police tried to evict about 150 farmers from a 4,900-acre reserve. Seventeen people died in the clash.

Lugo, 63, has expressed sorrow at the confrontation and accepted the resignations of his interior minister and his chief of police.

On the streets of the Paraguayan capital, opinions about the impeachment effort were mixed.

"Lugo should finish his mandate and afterward we will elect someone who belongs to us," said Benito Canete, a 68-year-old concierge in an apartment building. "I think that if they get rid of him now it will be bad for the country."

A freighter grounded on a reef near Puerto Rico on Thursday, and dozens of people aboard swam to a nearby island. The U.S. Coast Guard said it is investigating.

New security plan aims to curb homicides

Venezuela's top security official says more than 14,000 people were slain in the country last year and that a new anti-crime plan aims to address the problem.

Justice Minister Tarek El Aissami says the country's homicide rate was 50 slayings per 100,000 people, one of the highest rates in Latin America. That's about the same as the 48 per 100,000 reported for 2010. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New video. Zimmerman re-enacts fatal shooting

Neighbourhood watch volunteer George Zimmerman re-enacted the fight he had with Trayvon Martin in a police video released Thursday, giving his most detailed account yet of what led him to fatally shoot the unarmed black teenager.

Zimmerman claims in the video that Martin said "you're going to die" and reached for Zimmerman's gun just before the shooting.

The police recording was taken a day after the Feb. 26 shooting. The video, along with audio recordings of police interviews, was released by Zimmerman's attorney about a week before Zimmerman's second bond hearing on a second-degree murder charge and on the heels of unflattering telephone calls capturing Zimmerman and his wife talking in code about using money collected for a defence fund to pay debts.

In the video (apne.ws/KWquJX), Zimmerman tells his side of the story to detectives, saying he grabbed his gun from a holster on his waist before Martin could get it, and shot the 17-year-old Martin once in the chest as Detective Chris Sereno asked Zimmerman about profiling during an interview.

"He sat up and said, 'You got me. You got me, or something like that,'" Zimmerman said, adding that Martin had been on top of him, slamming his head against the ground and smothering his mouth and nose with his hand and arm.

Zimmerman claims he shot the teen in self-defence, under Florida's "stand your ground" law.

Martin's parents have said Zimmerman was the aggressor. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Norwegian massacre

Breivik belongs in mental institution, prosecutors say

If Norwegian prosecutors get their way, no one will be held criminally responsible for the deaths of 77 people in a bomb and shooting rampage that roiled the peaceful nation. Even though self-styled anti-Muslim militant Anders Behring Breivik insists he is sane and that he carried out the July 22 attacks for political reasons, prosecutors said in closing arguments Thursday that doubts about his mental state mean he should be sent to a psychiatric institution instead of prison. Ultimately, it's up to the Oslo district court to decide whether Breivik is criminally insane when it presents its ruling next month. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No links between bank hostage, March shooting: French prosecutors

French prosecutors say they haven't found any links between a gunman who took four Toulouse bank employees hostage and the man suspected of killing seven people in the same city in March. French special police captured the gunman in Wednesday's hostage drama after a six-hour standoff. Prosecutor Michel Valet said that at the current stage of the investigation there are "no objective links" between the unidentified gunman and Mohamed Merah, the suspected gunman in the March shootings of three Jewish schoolchildren, a rabbi and three paratroopers. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Human-animal conflict increases in Kenya

Kenya Wildlife Service rangers load the carcasses of six lions speared to death by residents of Oloika area in retaliation after the lions raided a boma (livestock enclosure) and ate four goats, in Kitengela, Kajiado County, Kenya, Wednesday. ## Wildlife. Maasai men spear lions, killing six — two adult lionesses, two younger lions and two cubs — after pride killed eight goats

Crouching at dawn in the savannah's tall grass, the lions tore through the flesh of eight goats. Dogs barked, women screamed and men with the rank of warrior in this village of Maasai tribesmen gathered their spears.

Kenya Wildlife Service rangers responded to the attack, but arrived without a veterinarian and no way to tranquilize the eight lions and remove them from Ilkeek-Lemedung'I, a settlement of mud and stone homes not far from the edges of Nairobi National Park.

In the end, the Maasai men — who come from a tribe renowned for its hunting skills — grew tired of waiting, said Charity Kingangir, whose father's goats were attacked Wednesday. The men speared the lions, killing six: two adult lionesses, two younger lions and two cubs.

The lions had killed eight goats, each worth about $60.

Wednesday's killings highlight the growing threat to Kenya's wildlife posed by the rapid expansion of its capital. A week earlier, residents from another village on Nairobi's outskirts killed a leopard that had eaten a goat. Last month, wildlife service agents shot and killed a lion moving around the Nairobi suburb of Karen.

On Thursday, three lions attacked and killed three goats outside Nairobi National Park. Rangers chased the lions back to the park.

Earlier this week, the Kenya Wildlife Service sent out a public notice pleading with people who encounter wild animals "to desist from killing them."

As Nairobi enjoys a boom in apartment and road construction, an expanding population centre is putting heavy pressure on the animals, especially big cats. Nairobi National Park is the only wildlife park in the world that lies in a country's capital.

Killing lions is a crime in Kenya, but those who lose livestock to big cats frequently retaliate. About 100 lions are killed each year, and the country's lion population has dropped to about 2,000.

Lions, especially ones who leave Nairobi National Park, which is not completely fenced in, are at risk. After Wednesday's killings, the park had 37 left, KWS estimates. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lost custody. Obese dad to go on hunger strike

An Ottawa man who lost custody of his two kids partly due to being overweight said he will go on a hunger strike Friday on Parliament Hill to strike back at the Children's Aid Society (CAS).

In an Ontario Superior Court ruling Wednesday, Justice Martin James said the 38-year-old man's boys, aged four and six, would be given up for adoption and live apart from each other.

"(The father's) weight-loss regime is itself a full-time job," the ruling said.

The ruling also claimed that he played online video games for hours on end and tends to be "combative when people don't agree with him."

Major factor

The father's weight was mentioned several times in the 33-page ruling and was a "major factor" in the judge's decision, the man said.

- He weighs about 360 pounds and was at 520 pounds at his heaviest.

"I'm going to go on an international stage and expose this and my children will know what their father's done for them," the father said. "I hope I get to appeal and disprove all of this." JOE LOFARO/METRO IN OTTAWA

School on lockdown after black bear evades officers

A Victoria school was put on lockdown for about two hours Wednesday afternoon, as conservation officers searched for a black bear. The animal had been hit by a pickup truck on the Island

School staff were told to keep the children inside because injured bears can be unpredictable, said conservation officer Peter Pauwels. After struggling to locate the bear in the thick brush, officers called in the hounds and they were able to spot it as it ran from the dogs. It appeared to be uninjured.

Video of bullied woman spurs Toronto man to help pay for her vacation

Outpouring of support.

Indiegogo.com has raised more than $250,000 US for the grandmother of eight

A viral video of a school-bus monitor in New York state being bullied by four middle schoolers prompted a Toronto man to launch a fundraiser to send the woman on vacation.

"I felt deeply sad for Karen," said Max Sidorov, a graduate of York University. "I had some issues with bullying myself when I was a young kid and had just come to Canada, so I know where she's coming from."

The taunting and verbal abuse of the bus monitor was captured in a 10-minute cell-phone video recorded by one of the students and posted to YouTube. It shows 68-year-old Karen Klein trying her best to ignore the stream of profanity, insults and threats directed at her. At one point, she breaks down in tears. THE CANADIAN PRESS

'More respectful'

Parents should punish boys: Victim

Karen Klein has told police that she does not want the boys to face criminal charges. She said she is happy with the swift and strong community response against the verbal attack aboard a Greece Central School District bus, authorities said Thursday.

Criminally charging the boys, all seventh-graders, would require their conduct to rise to the level of a crime, Greece police Capt. Steve Chatterton said. So far, it has not been found to reach that level.

Klein said she hoped the boys' parents would view the video of the attack and talk to their children about being "a little more respectful." Parents of all four boys are co-operating fully and say their children will be punished, Chatterton said.

By Thursday morning, the video had been viewed more than 1.5 million times on YouTube. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weather guru calls for hot, dry summer

Extended heat wave. Environment Canada expert predicts summer highs after warmest spring in 65 years

A hotter and drier summer than usual is in the cards for Canadians, the country's top weather guru says.

"There's no guarantee with weather, not in Canada — maybe in Malta or Cyprus or Honolulu ... But our models are showing that we think that July and August and early September look like it's going to be warmer than normal from coast to coast," said Dave Phillips, senior climatologist at Environment Canada.

No areas of the country are expected to see temperatures dip below historic averages, though some areas will hover

The heat and humidity in the low-40s across southern Ontario and parts of Quebec so far this week may be a prelude to the summer weather story to come.

It's been "almost a dry run, or the opening act" to weather ahead, said Phillips.

Just three months ago, Debbe Ebben had no hair. On Saturday night, she was crowned Miss Alaska.

Ebben shaved her head in March to raise more than $4,000 for the St. Baldrick's Foundation, which donates money for childhood cancer research. She said she did it to let children who lost their hair because of cancer treatments know that it was OK to be bald.

Choosing her words carefully, she said losing one's hair should be special — whether it's voluntary or not.

"I wanted to put meaning and emotion behind it, and let them know why I'm doing it — for the kids," she said. "I'm not shaving it to get attention. I'm not shaving it for publicity. I'm not shaving it because it's a really easy hairstyle to go with. I'm shaving it for them."

Accused body-parts killer Magnotta gets trial by jury

Court appearance.

Suspect declines psychiatric evaluation, will face preliminary hearing in March 2013

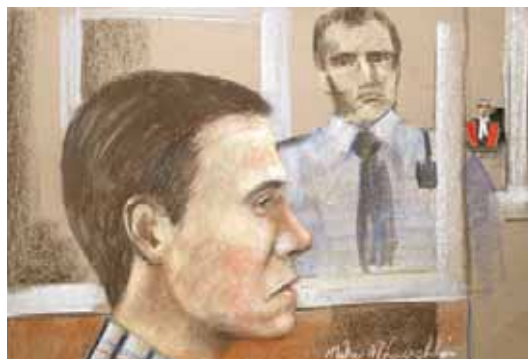

Luka Rocco Magnotta made a brief, surprise appearance in a Montreal courtroom Thursday to tie up a few loose ends in his case before vanishing from public view until early 2013.

The accused body-parts killer had court dates set for early next year and was told he will face a preliminary hearing next March where part of the evidence against him will be heard.

Magnotta, charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of Chinese student Jun Lin, 33, has opted for a trial in front of a jury.

He asked that he receive medication while incarcerated.

And he introduced his team of three lawyers, including a lead attorney from Toronto. That lawyer did not ask for a psychiatric evaluation, contrary to what one of his colleagues suggested earlier in the week.

There was one other surprise twist Thursday: Magnotta appeared in court in person. Authorities had hinted that the 29-year-old murder suspect would appear by video link, as he had at his first court appearance earlier this week.

While Magnotta looked sleepy, he appeared to follow the proceedings attentively.

His lead defence attorney, Luc Leclair, made a brief statement at the end of the hearing.

"Mr. Magnotta waived his rights to extradition because he wanted to come back to Montreal," Leclair said, without taking any questions.

"He trusts the Canadian judicial system."

So who will defend Luka Rocco Magnotta — the man accused of mailing body parts to the Conservative Party of Canada? Ironically, it will be a Conservative.

Toronto lawyer Luc Leclair, who has worked on campaigns for several prominent Conservatives, will represent Magnotta.

He worked with Defence Minister Peter MacKay, in his bid for the Progressive Conservative leadership in 2003; with Belinda Stronach, when she ran for the leadership of the new federal party against Prime Minister Stephen Harper; and with John Tory, the former leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservatives.

Killer. Homolka now a mother of three living in Guadeloupe: Ebook

She horrified the country with her role in the torture and killing of Ontario school girls two decades ago, now she has three children of her own.

Years after her case gripped the country, Karla Homolka has been found living in the Caribbean under a different name with a husband and three young children.

The details of her life after 12 years in prison are detailed in an 46-page ebook by journalist Paula Todd, titled "Finding Karla."

In the early 1990s, Homolka and her then-husband, Paul Bernardo, were convicted of crimes related to the rape and murder of two schoolgirls, Kristen French and Leslie Mahaffy.

While Bernardo went on to be sentenced to life in prison, Homolka struck a deal with prosecutors in 1993 to serve 12 years in prison for manslaughter.

Little has been known about Homolka's life since she was released from prison in 2005.

For Todd, that lack of information drove her to figure out what had become of the

Election results kept from Egyptians

Presidential run-off.
Charges of manipulation emerge as declaration postponed

Egypt's media are demonizing the Muslim Brotherhood as the state's worst enemy, claiming the fundamentalist group plans to plunge the country into chaos if its candidate does not emerge as the winner from the presidential runoff.

Results of the weekend election were set to be announced Thursday, but officials postponed the declaration, setting off a wave of charges of manipulation aimed at all sides, including the ruling military council.

The Brotherhood escalated its fight with the military, calling for a mass protest Friday to denounce what it called a power grab by the generals. Three major Islamist groups said Thursday they would join the protest in Tahrir Square, birthplace of the uprising that forced Hosni Mubarak out of office last year.

Syrian fighter pilot defects to Jordan

A Syrian girl chants anti-Assad slogans in front of the Syrian embassy in Amman, Jordan, Thursday. The placards read "We would die before backing down," and "We will be victorious by god's help." MOHAMMAD HANNON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Diplomacy. The high-level defection is sensitive due to close ties between the countries

A Syrian fighter pilot on a training mission flew his MiG-21 warplane to Jordan on Thursday and asked for political asylum, the first defection of an air force pilot with his plane during the 15-month uprising against President Bashar Assad.

Quoted

"He was given asylum because if he returned home, his safety will not be guaranteed."

Jordanian security official.

The air force is considered fiercely loyal to Assad's regime, and the defection suggests some of Syria's most ironclad allegiances are fraying.

A spokesman for the rebel Free Syrian Army, Ahmad

Kassem, said the group had encouraged the pilot to defect and monitored his activity until the jet landed safely in Jordan.

The pilot, identified as Col. Hassan Hammadeh, removed his air force tag and knelt on the tarmac in prayer after landing his plane at King Hussein Air Base in Mafraq, Jordan, 70 kilometres north of Amman, a Jordanian security official said.

He said Jordanian officials were questioning the defector, but he will be allowed to stay in the country on "humanitarian grounds."

"He may be tortured or killed," the official said, if the pilot returned to Syria.

Men accused of bribing witnesses in case against Jewish counsellor

Four men have been accused of trying to bribe witnesses in an attempt to stop them from testifying against an ultra-Orthodox Jewish counsellor charged with molesting a New York City teenager for years.

The men pleaded not guilty Thursday to charges including bribing a witness, witness tampering, and coercion.

Prosecutors say the men offered witnesses money and asked them to leave the country and not testify in the case against 53-year-old Nechemya Webberman. He has pleaded not guilty to sex-abuse charges. Prosecutors say he molested the Brooklyn girl from ages 12 to 15.

Sandusky jury deliberates

Jurors started deliberations Thursday in Jerry Sandusky's child-sex-abuse trial, a case that could send the former Penn State assistant football coach to prison for life.

Prosecutors sought to portray Sandusky as a "predatory pedophile" who used gifts and influence to lure and abuse vulnerable boys who came from troubled homes.

"What you should do is come out and say to the defendant that he molested and abused, and give them back their souls," said Senior Deputy Attorney General Joe McGettigan.

Sandusky's lawyer said the former coach is a victim of accusers with financial motives and a legal system that thought he was guilty before he was even charged.

Flaherty introduces new mortgage, lending rules

Expected announcement. Both Flaherty and Bank of Canada head Mark Carney have expressed concern about rising household debt

Buying a first home or taking out a loan against an existing residence will be more difficult for Canadians under new rules announced Thursday, but Finance Minister Jim Flaherty says it's for their own good.

For the fourth time in as many years, the finance minister moved to tighten the mortgage and lending landscape — changes that mean up to five per cent of Canadians who might be considering buying a new home will likely no longer qualify.

This time Flaherty's cutting the maximum amortization period for government-insured homes to 25 years from the current 30 years, and limiting how much homeowners can borrow on the value of their homes to 80 per cent from 85 per cent.

Those are not the only changes the government is making.

It will no longer be in the business of insuring homes that are worth more than $1 million — meaning buyers will need to put up at least a 20 per cent down payment or seek private insurance.

As well, it will insist that prospective buyers have the means to afford mortgage payments, property taxes and heating costs on their home.

It will do so by setting cost ratios based on household income — a kind of affordability ratio — of 39 per cent for gross debt service and 44 per cent for total debt service.

"It's a question of trying to moderate behaviour and I hope Canadians will reflect before they jump into a market at the high end," Flaherty said.

"It will mean that some people will not buy into the market. It will also mean that some people will buy less into the market; they'll buy a less expensive home or less expensive condominium.

"Good. I consider that desirable."

The changes go into effect July 9.

The most significant change is the reduction to the amortization period, bringing it back to the level it had stood historically before rising to as high as 40 years during the heady pre-recession days of 2006.

Economy running on fumes: Carney

Canada's relatively healthy economy has been largely based on borrowed money but the situation cannot go on indefinitely, Bank of Canada governor Mark Carney warned Thursday.

The central bank governor's stern words to a business audience in Halifax came just hours after federal Finance Minister Jim Flaherty moved to clamp down on household lending.

Carney made clear that he endorses the moves, calling them "prudent" and "timely" to support the long-term stability of the housing market and guard against financial excesses.

Carney suggested he has no patience for the view that instead of raising interest rates his next move will be to cut the trendsetting overnight rate from the current one per cent, where it's been since September 2010.

"Our economy cannot ... depend indefinitely on debt-fuelled household expenditures, particularly in an environment of modest income growth," he said.

"Notably, housing investment rose further relative to GDP in the first quarter, and accounts for an unusually elevated share of the overall Canadian economy."

IPOs out of vogue since Facebook's flop

The animated facade of the Nasdaq MarketSite in New York's Times Square welcomes the Facebook IPO last month. RICHARD DREW/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

It's been a month since Facebook's IPO fell flat, and in that time the market for initial public offerings has collapsed.

No company has gone public since May 18, compared with 19 in the same period a year ago. Fourteen offerings have been withdrawn or delayed, according to Dealogic.

There are no public offerings scheduled this week. Of course, thanks to the European debt crisis, financial markets haven't been terribly conducive to IPOs. Still, venture capitalists say the fallout from Facebook's rocky IPO is making companies — especially those in the technology sector — cautious about going public.

Cautious companies

"It pretty much wiped the counter clean for the time being — it sucked the air out of the room."

Francis Gaskins, president of IPOdesktop on the tentative market post-Facebook's IPO

"It pretty much wiped the counter clean for the time being," says Francis Gaskins, president of researcher IPOdesktop. "It sucked the air out of the room."

It wasn't supposed to be this way. The Internet industry that captivated the investment world in the late 1990s and went bust as the next decade began had pinned its hopes on Facebook's stock market debut to signify the beginning of a new era. In Silicon Valley, the IPO had been billed as "the big one," an earth-shaking event that would unleash a wave of investment in technology startups.

Instead, from the first-day-pop-that-wasn't to the investor lawsuits and falling share prices that followed, Facebook's $16-billion US initial public offering has resulted in nothing but trepidation among tech entrepreneurs and those who supply their early funding.

Research in Motion woos app developers

Fierce competition.

Can the BlackBerry maker win back confidence with its new operating system and focus on apps?

Even as BlackBerry maker Research in Motion faces what's certainly the most difficult period in the company's history, its executives haven't lost their sense of humour.

A whirlwind summer tour to entice software developers took a hilarious turn Thursday as the lights dimmed in a hotel conference room and several of the company's development team appeared on screen singing a parody of Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers' 'The Waiting.' "The waiting is the hardest part. BlackBerry 10 will be state-of-the-art," the executives sang in the mock music video.

"But the waiting is the hardest part."

That sentiment could be echoed throughout the tech industry as investors, analysts and consumers keep their eye on the Waterloo, Ont.-based company. RIM has tumbled from grace over the past two years with remarkable speed, but is trying to prove a newfound agility while preparing the debut of its long-awaited new smartphones sometime later this year.

The pseudo-rock-band parody marked the start of the day-long BlackBerry 10 Jam showcase, designed to convince the tech industry's creative types that the BlackBerry is still a cutting-edge device with a promising future.

The event races across North America in the coming weeks before heading to Europe, Asia and Latin America later this summer. Another Canadian stop is scheduled for July 11 in Montreal.

If all goes according to RIM's plan, developers will buy into the company's new operating system and help turn its BlackBerry App World store into something that rivals Apple's iTunes app selection.

BMO. Court certifies foreign-exchange lawsuit

A class-action lawsuit against BMO Nesbitt Burns, BMO Investorline and BMO Trust Company has been certified by the Ontario Superior Court.

The suit accuses BMO of automatically converting any foreign currency that was paid into RRSP accounts into Canadian dollars without authorization.

It further alleges that BMO charged undisclosed or inadequately disclosed and unauthorized fees related to the foreign-currency transactions.

None of the allegations have been proven in court.

BMO said it was disappointed with the decision and that it would defend the case, but declined further comment because it was before the courts.

The case is seeking reimbursement of the foreign-exchange fees charged on the purchase and sale of foreign investments held in registered accounts and the fees paid related to the conversion of foreign currencies that were paid into the accounts. THE CANADIAN PRESS

2 Radiohead/The Flaming Lips. In a "great cosmic collision" of live music, the Flaming Lips and Radiohead were to perform simultaneous sets in Toronto Saturday night. Except Radiohead's concert was cancelled after a pre-show stage collapse at Downsview Park, resulting in the death of drum tech Scott Johnson. The Flaming Lips paid moving tribute, covering Radiohead's Knives Out at Yonge-Dundas Square.

The first-time MuchMusic Video Awards performer was the big winner with three MMVAs for video of the year, MuchMusic.com's most-watched video, and fan-driven ur fave video of the year for Call Me Maybe. World domination is imminent.

4 Justin Trudeau for prime minister? With the Liberal party leadership up for grabs after Bob Rae's announcement he won't run, many are wondering if the charismatic son of former prime minister Pierre Trudeau will vie for the party leadership. Justin is considering running, and a poll says 42 per cent of Canadians think he would do a good job. Trudeaumania: The Sequel.

5 Rodney King. After his brutal beating by police officers in 1991 stunned a nation, King went on national TV a year later following their acquittals, which started race riots in L.A., and pleaded for peace. King himself never found peace, battling alcohol and arrests — and was found dead in his pool Sunday morning at the age of 47. Fitting, perhaps, that it was officers who pulled him out and tried to perform CPR on him.

6 Cristiano Ronaldo. Ronaldo had been a bust on the international stage until shining for the first time at Euro 2012 this week — scoring three dramatic goals in Portugal's two wins to push them into the semifinals. He's no Pele, but he has put himself among the greats. And he can definitely bend it like Beckham.

7 Will turns 30. It's hard to believe, but the little boy who grew up before the world's eyes — son of the iconic Diana, Princess of Wales — turned the big 3-0 this week. No word on what Kate got him, but I would have recommended a flash mob with the Queen, Kate, Harry, Charles and the guards at Buckingham Palace.

8 Beau Hossler. The amateur golfer participated in the U.S. Open on the weekend, and while he didn't come close to winning — he finished tied for 29th after briefly holding the lead in the second round — remember this: He's only 17. He was cheered and serenaded at every hole, and given a standing ovation at the end. "Let's Go Hossler" tees may someday go viral.

9 Jack Osbourne. The reality TV star from the famous Osbourne family announced he's been diagnosed with multiple sclerosis, discovering he had it after losing much of the vision in his right eye. "Adapt and overcome is my new motto," says Osbourne, who recently became a dad. And now possibly a spokesperson for the disease à la Montel Williams.

10 Canada's Walk of Fame. Musicians Randy Bachman and Sarah McLachlan, the late comedian Phil Hartman, ballerina Sonia Rodriguez, football player Russ Jackson and the 1972 members of Team Canada are among this year's inductees to Canada's Walk of Fame, and will get a star in Toronto's entertainment district on Sept. 22. For some reason, I didn't make the cut this year.

11 Adele's miracle. Her hit single Rolling in the Deep awoke from a coma seven-year-old British girl Charlotte Neve, who had suffered a brain hemorrhage. She wasn't expected to survive, but after lying comatose for a week Adele's song came on the hospital radio. Mom sang it to her and little Charlotte broke into a smile. She has since recovered. Miracle song.

CROUSE AND

This is no history lesson

Abraham Lincoln: Vampire Hunter. Once you get past the crazy premise, the film is actually entertaining

Richard: Mark, for a movie about vampires it has very little bite. There are a couple of big action set pieces and bloodsuckers get killed by the dozen, but I thought the over reliance on computer generated effects reduces the vampire battles — and that's what we're paying to see! — to a bloody synthetic spray of binary code, and little more. What did you think?

Mark: I have rarely seen a movie with a more idiotic premise, but I have also rarely seen a movie of this type so beautifully shot or art directed. The

Synopsis

The story of Abraham Lincoln's bloodsucker battles begins in 1818 when his mother is killed by a vengeful vampire. His hatred of his mother's killer grows for years, but when he finally has the chance to even the score, he is instead, literally bitten by the urge to hunt vampires. Teaming up with a Van Helsing-esque warrior named Henry Sturgess (Dominic Cooper), he uses a silver-tipped axe to make sure America remains "a nation of men and not monsters."

- Richard: ●●●●
- Mark: ●●●●

3D is ravishing. If you can accept the ludicrous, absurd game of revisionist history that's being played here, you might have a good time at this flick. My main problem is that the movie adopts a different tone in its last third, after Lincoln becomes President. The cleverness gives way to spectacle, and I got left behind in all the conventional carnage onscreen.

RC: I wanted the carnage! This isn't a history lesson, it's a movie about killing vampires and on that level it only works in the film's OTT action sequences. Give me more of Honest Abe jumping from horse to horse during a stampede, and less of everything else. Although I have to have a soft spot for a movie that wraps up (MILD SPOILER) with Mary Todd Lincoln saying, "Abraham! Hurry, we're late for the theatre!"

MB: And the movie lost major points for me for not showing the scene and suggesting that Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, was actually a vampire! The movie may not be a history lesson, but it does play with history, which gave it some tang for me. It sure wasn't the dialogue, or the acting. In fact, the lead, Benjamin Walker, got the part because he was the only actor who could embrace the premise without bursting into derisive laughter. You're right about the stampede scene, though. Exciting, original, and very memorable.

RC: You can't make a sequel if you kill the main character! No matter what really happened if this movie makes money, Abe will be back killing vampires, honestly.

MB: What worries me isn't the sequel, but the copycats: Franklin Roosevelt: Werewolf Killer; JFK: Alien Hunter; and worst of all, Stephen Harper: Zombie Slayer.

N.Y. press club not happy with Baldwin

The New York Press Club is condemning Alec Baldwin's alleged assault of a newspaper photographer outside a marriage license bureau. The press club released a statement Wednesday saying Baldwin's actions "should not be tolerated." They say he is a public figure and that his activities are "legitimate subjects of media interest." Police have confirmed that Daily News photographer Marcus Santos has filed a complaint against Baldwin. They say Santos claims he was punched while snapping photos of Baldwin and his fiancée on Tuesday.

Set in Toronto, Sarah Polley's Take this Waltz explores infidelity

Adulterous dilemma. Actress-turned-filmmaker's latest effort deals with a moral tussle that will divide audiences

scene@metronews.ca

Take this Waltz divides audiences, and actor-turned-Oscar-nominated filmmaker Sarah Polley is perfectly satisfied with that.

"To me the film is a little too soft or something but I'm amazed at the way people are responding to it," said Polley in Toronto recently.

"People bring their past relationship to it, people bring their current relationship to it and I feel like they align themselves with one character or another...so I love hearing what people think the film is saying."

Named after a Leonard Cohen song, Polley's sophomore effort (in theatres June 29) sticks to her roots.

Set proudly in Toronto, Waltz explores a happily married woman's (multiple-Oscar nominated actor Michelle Williams) moral tussle with desires of infidelity when she meets a bohemian artist.

"I actually think the gender divide is really complicated on this one. I feel like it's much more common to see men on television and in movies have sexual restlessness and to still like them (despite) that," said Polley referring specifically to the popularity of Mad Men character Don Draper.

"It's interesting to me that we're more comfort-

Romanticizing Toronto

"I always imagined Toronto would be a main character in a film," said Polley. "It was like an opportunity to celebrate Toronto and really show it the way I romanticize it and idealize it and the way I love it."

achievements — an aspect of her career she admits "may take a bit of a hit".

After 27 years in front of the camera however, Take This Waltz (and the Oscar-nomination she received for writing Away From Her) establishes Polley's best work in filmmaking is yet to come.

"(Screenwriting) is my favorite part," said Polley. "Maybe I feel there's actually very little art to screenwriting. Everybody is impressed if you can write a half-decent screenplay but actually anybody who's ever watched movies could. I find it kind of hilarious."

Family Guy came first for MacFarlane before he could cuddle up with his Ted

Bear necessities. Entertainer's directorial debut delayed due to show's temporary cancellation in 2004

Metro World News in Hollywood

Seth MacFarlane has certainly established himself as a bona fide entertainer, with three animated series on TV, 2.2 million Twitter followers and a burgeoning career as a crooner.

And now he makes his debut as a director with the comedy Ted. So why has it taken him this long to get around to making a movie?

A lot of that had to do with making sure his flagship property could survive without him.

"Family Guy had that little cancellation thing happen," MacFarlane says, referring to the hit show's brief death in 2001 and rebirth in 2004. "I wanted to make sure that it was fully on its feet after coming back before I stepped away to do a film because it did mean stepping away from that show completely for at least a year."

And while Family Guy has its origins in a pair of animated film pitches MacFarlane developed, Ted took the reverse track: "This was an idea that had actually been floating around in my head for a while. I had originally conceived it as an animated series idea and for a number of reasons shelved it," he recalls. "When it came time to do my first movie, it seemed like a story that would make a much better film than a series." That idea — about a man (Mark Wahlberg) and his teddy bear (voiced by MacFarlane) that magically came to life when he was a kid — might seem cartoonish on paper, but MacFarlane's main concern was making the situation believable.

Seth MacFarlane directs Ted. GETTY

Pfeiffer's one of us in People Like Us

NED
Metro World News in Hollywood

Despite the fact that actor Chris Pine has grown accustomed to taking a beating on film — with roles in Star Trek and this year's This Means War — Michelle Pfeiffer wasn't particularly enthused about joining the party.

"Oh, I hated that," Pfeiffer says of her first scene with Pine in People Like Us, in which she slaps him across the face. "I didn't like having to do that. I didn't even like watching it. It's so brutal, really, to slap somebody. I think it's probably hard for audiences to see that. That's a really hard thing to recover from."

In People Like Us, Pfeiffer plays Lillian, the mother to Pine's Sam, who is dealing with the aftershocks of discovering his recently deceased father secretly had another child (Elizabeth Banks). Given the tension in the mother-son relationship on screen,

Michelle Pfeiffer. HANDOUT

Pfeiffer's main concern was conveying some warmth in Lillian.

"One of the things (director) Alex (Kurtzman) and I talked about from the beginning was that she just didn't become one dimensional and really cold and icy," Pfeiffer says.

"We wanted to find the humanity of this person who was just really limited and damaged and who had made certain choices in her life that she may regret, that she's not proud of. What I love about her is that she ultimately owns up and takes responsibility for those choices. I think she's unapologetic about it."

Another thing she decided to be unapologetic about was Lillian's look, presenting her natural beauty with a fair dose of weary reality.

"It's not easy to see yourself at your worst," she says of watching the finished product. "None of us want people to see us when we've just rolled out of bed and your hair is dirty and you don't have any makeup on and you're puffy from whatever you've been doing. And that's who she is."

"I wanted to do that. I wanted to go there, I felt it would be liberating."

Brave may not be one of Pixar studio's best films (Wall-E, Up) but it would be wrong to denounce it based on that. The Scottish fable of a tomboy princess who refuses to resign to marriage takes a surprising tonal turn once she unwittingly has her mother placed under a witch's curse.

Supersize Me filmmaker Morgan Spurlock's nerdy-tastic documentary follows a gaggle of geeks into the holy land of pop culture, the San Diego Comic Con while telling the history of the venerable mecca of weird fantasy culture. Comic Con is a fun picture — you can't help but smile at the sheer circus the convention has become — but, unlike the movie Spurlock's title cribbs from, it lacks a dark side.

The sound of summer has a name: Icona Pop

Swedish duo. After meeting three years ago, the close friends are ready to take on the music world with infectious dance tunes

EMMA BJÖRKMAN
Metro World News in Sweden

"I crashed my car into the bridge! I don't care! I love it!"

Those aren't the most cheerful lyrics for a summer hit single, but Icona Pop's throbbing dance-friendly beats make anything sound like fun.

The duo's single I Love It, basically about a woman telling a partner to go to hell, has 265,000 views on YouTube. The tune Nights Like This has even more.

"It's amazing when someone comes up to you and say that they like what we are doing and when people sing along in our songs," says Caroline Hjelt, 24.

The two women (the other being 25-year-old Aino Jawo) met at a party three years ago and clicked instantly.

"We're as close as you can be. We have lived together since we met and sleep in the same bed. We have an amazing respect for each other and have a damned good time together. We tell each other that we're lucky to have one another," says Hjelt.

It didn't take long after meeting before they started making music.

"Aino was freshly dumped and I was frustrated about my music when we met so it was a perfect time to start something new. It only took a week or so to write our new song and after four weeks, we had our first gig. Then we started chasing people and nagging our way to gigs," says Hjelt.

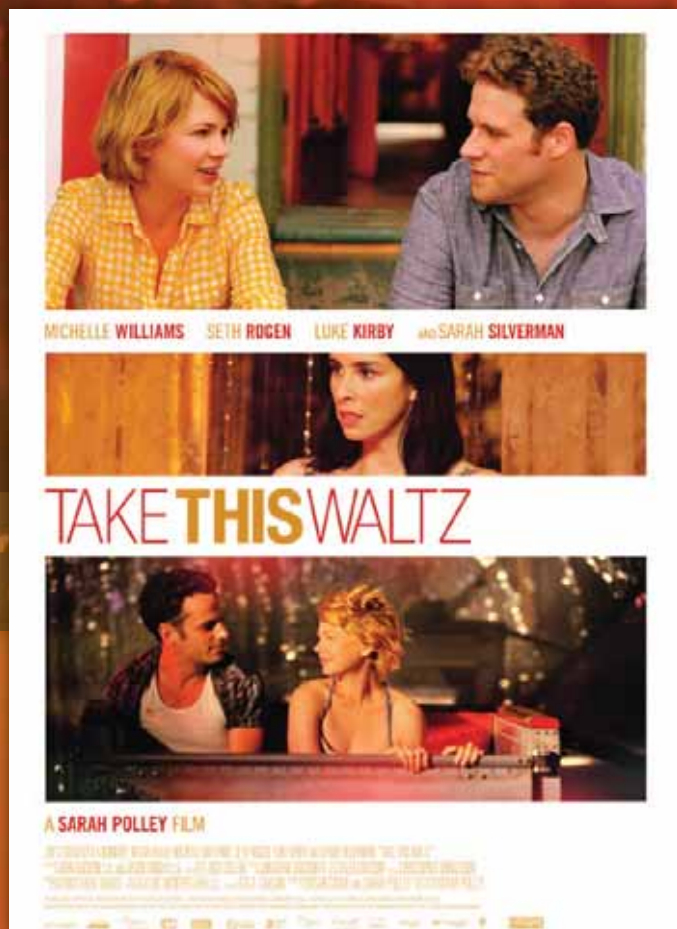

Now, having lived in London for two years, Hjelt and Jawo are temporarily back in their old commune in Stockholm and working on their debut album.

"It is a great mix. You can follow our journey over these three years, there's a difference between our first songs and the ones we have written now," says Jawo.

Hjelt adds: "It's our little baby. Now it's time for the rest of the world to get to know us."

Matthew Sweet: Back in the arms of a good friend

Anniversary. 20 years after the release of his smash Girlfriend, the singer returns with a tour to celebrate the hit and a new album

LABAN

Metro World News in Boston

Maybe anniversaries exist as a do-over. At least, that's how it's working out for Matthew Sweet, whose 20th anniversary tour for his iconic 1991 record Girlfriend has kept him busy since last fall.

This time around, says Los Angeles-based Sweet, he's getting to enjoy the record.

"I'm not as nervous and freaky as I was then, I'm more grounded now. So I can enjoy it more," says the 48-year-old Nebraska native. "It was a hard time for me. I had made two records before Girlfriend with no success. Then came all the attention. I was not prepared for the amount of work and specifically the amount of meanness that was reflected back at me. It was sickening, in a way."

We're talking 20 years. Does Sweet feel, well, old?

"I feel old in general. It doesn't feel like some old thing I'm having to relive," Sweet says of Girlfriend. "At the end of 2010 I thought, 'It's going to be 20 next year, we should do something.'"

"(Then) I thought, 'What was I thinking?!' I had to relearn (the album). Now, it's really comfortable for me. Once we learned the record, it just felt normal."

And what of Sweet's new stuff? His scheduling is a bit off: Sweet released his new album, Modern Art, just before the Girlfriend anniversary tour began. "We knew the two were coinciding, but I thought I could keep on promoting Modern Art beyond Girlfriend. It makes Modern Art a bit more mysterious. But I think it will get its attention over time."

Taking travels into darkness

Jukebox the Ghost.
Singer Tommy Siegel
on the losses that led his usually peppy band to sing about Ghosts in Empty Houses

scene@metronews.ca

The first half of the new

Jukebox the Ghost album is as jaunty and upbeat as ever, but later in the journey of Safe Travels, the band trade in some of their certifiably danceable hooks in favor of deeper, darker introspection.

"To me, all good pop music — even good, sunny pop music — has a real hint of sadness going on," says guitarist and singer Tommy Siegel. "If you're all bubbles and happiness all the time, it doesn't really resonate with people."

Siegel says that most of the songs on Safe Travels, were written before the band actually assembled to record. But when pianist and vocalist Ben Thorne will lost his grandfather and drummer Jesse Kristin lost his father, both to lung cancer, it gave the latter half of the album a heightened emotional power. Tracks such as Dead, Adulthood and Ghosts in Empty Houses deal with weighty fears of mortality previously untouched in the band's first two releases.

"It is more vulnerable," Siegel says of the new album. "It's a lot more personal than we have been in the past."

Fresh off trying out the new material at the music festival juggernaut that is Bonnaroo, Jukebox the Ghost dive headfirst into the type of thoroughly demanding tour that now defines them. Their New York City show sold out months before.

"It sold out so far in advance, that there was never really any way for someone who wasn't already a huge fan of our band to get a ticket," says Siegel of the Bowery Ballroom gig. "So that's really exciting to me — that we're going to get on stage, have a sold-out crowd and it's going to be filled with only people who are really on top of the band and really like the band."

Step by step

How to go about choosing your album artwork.

- Why they went with an abstract image. The album artwork for Safe Travels features a painting from artist Christopher Ferrino. The cover photograph on their previous effort, Everything Under the Sun, is also by Ferrino. Siegel says the decidedly abstract image comes from a series of Ferrino's depiction of ladders.

The Bravest Man in the Universe

New album. Bobby Womack's been through the mill and now, with Damon Albarn's help, he's back with a bang

Metro World News

Bobby Womack has seen it all. He started his career in the '60s, collaborating first with Sam Cooke, then with everyone from Ray Charles to Aretha Franklin to Jimi Hendrix.

His solo career took off in the '70s, and the material he released then has made an indelible, if underappreciated, mark on pop music. But after a few unsuccessful albums released in the '80s and '90s, and some time in rehab, Womack had all but given up on his life as an artist.

Thankfully, his talents did not go unnoticed by Damon Albarn, whose collaborative brain-children have included Blur, Gorillaz and The Good, The Bad and The Queen. After having Womack add guest vocals to a few Gorillaz tracks, Albarn approached the soul singer about doing a full-length album. Though apprehensive, Womack agreed to go into the studio.

"I didn't know what was going to happen. I hadn't picked up my guitar for a long time," Womack says. "Plus, I had walked away from drugs completely, so that's like a whole new life — I found out I couldn't fit in because all I knew was a bunch of druggies, whether they were musicians or what. ... They was too paranoid to

Quote

"I walked away from drugs completely, so that's a whole new life."

Bobby Womack
On turning his life around be around me."

Womack and Albarn settled into a comfortable collaborative relationship, which produced an album in record time.

"I've never cut an album this quick," Womack says. "What Damon Albarn would do, he would start playing a track and once he played that track I'd say, 'Man that sounds like me. I can do this.' And he said, 'OK, we'll do it' and I'd jump on the song and before I knew it, the song was finished. He had a nice way of approaching me. He let me do what I wanted to do. It was a creator talking to a creator — the things that (I had been) afraid to try, I wasn't afraid to try with him."

And so the world now has The Bravest Man in the Universe — Womack's first album of original material in more than 15 years, with featured collaborations with Lana Del Rey and Malian singer Fatoumata Diawara. Albarn's electro-beat imprint is apparent — and will serve to draw new and younger listeners in — but Womack's thoughtful soul is at the heart of the record.

"I love the fact that I have something to say," says Womack "And I'm going to say it. And I think the best way to say it is on this new album."

TV. Falling Skies producer Steven Spielberg wants show to 'Amp it up'

Noah Wyle is confronting an alien invasion, the death of his wife and the potential annihilation of the human species in Falling Skies.

But he had to face a more personal issue in tackling the role of history professor Tom Mason in TNT's sci-fi series, which airs Sunday nights: Wyle, 41, has become an elder statesman, relatively speaking.

"I'm Anthony Edwards," said Wyle, referring to the ER co-star who's got eight years on him and boasted more credits when they started on the medical drama in 1994.

"I'm the guy who's been around a little longer and has a little more set savvy."

It's a shift that came up faster than expected for Wyle, who looks younger than his years despite the beard he added for gravitas on Falling Skies.

"When I showed up on set and realized I was going to play a father to Drew Royce, who's 26, my first instinct was, 'You gotta be kidding me.' Then I thought, 'Why is nobody else having a problem with this?'"

With his own children just 9 and 6 years old, Wyle protests, "I'm a young dad."

His TV expertise is much appreciated, said Remi Aubuchon, the show's executive producer.

"Noah is a terrific example for the rest of the cast and us. He's always on set prepared and he stays on the set. And this is a revelation for me, he reads scripts early and his notes are always well thought-out and smart."

Intelligence is a hallmark of Wyle's characters since ER, the actor acknowledges: "I tend to play smart guys, which I like. Brains over brawn."

But Professor Tom is far from desk bound. There's plenty of opportunity for him to show off his action skills as Tom and other Earthlings fight multi-legged aliens, unfondly nicknamed "skitters" by their human prey, and their murderous robots. The 10 episodes of season two, filmed in Vancouver, bring new depth to the characters and begin to unfold the "mythology onion" surrounding the aliens and their mission, Wyle said.

"It feels a lot fresher, a lot more fun, instead of going, 'I'm Tom Mason, I used to be a history professor. To prove that, I'm going to cite historical references for each one of these battles,'" he said.

There's definitely more action afoot this season, Aubuchon said, and at the specific direction of executive producer Steven Spielberg.

"His primary thing, and I believe he used these words, was, 'Amp it up. Fans want more. We have to deliver more than we did in the first season,'" Aubuchon said. With six months elapsed since the invasion, and the initial trauma past, the conflict had to evolve.

The 2nd Mass understands "we're not playing anymore, we're not hiding, and if we die, we die honourably," he said.

Spielberg was also adamant that Falling Skies avoid turning into a "hardware show" with emotions swamped by special effects, Aubuchon said. There will be family time for Tom and his three sons, and romance as well.

In one episode, widower Tom and lovely pediatrician Anne Glass (Moon Bloodgood) share a brief, tender moment over a rare chocolate treat Tom has found for her.

Call it "post-apocalyptic dating," Aubuchon said, "when you know an alien might come around the corner at any moment."

But the revved-up alien action is the payoff for Wyle's home-front audience, including his son, Owen, who helped dad choose between playing a policeman, lawyer, insurance adjuster or Falling Skies alien fighter.

"It keeps my son entertained," Wyle said, smiling.

Hold Fast goes from book to film

Movie. Story tells the tale of a Newfoundland boy's quest to belong

The classic Newfoundland novel Hold Fast, ranked by Quill & Quire as second only to Anne of Green Gables for Canadian children's books, will soon be a film starring Molly Parker, Andy Jones and soulful newcomer Avery Ash.

Fourteen-year-old Ash hails from the tiny coastal community of Hant's Harbour, N.L., on the Bay de Verde Peninsula, a tight-knit town not unlike the fishing outpost that his character, Michael, calls home.

In the book, Michael is suddenly wrenched from everything he loves most when his parents are killed in a car wreck. He and his little brother, Brent, are separated as the younger boy stays with their aunt and grandfather, while Michael heads to a larger city to live with his Aunt Ellen, played by Parker of NBC's The Firm, and Uncle Ted, played by Newfoundland actor Aiden Flynn.

Michael bonds in that troubled house with his cousin, Curtis, but soon begins to crack under the weight of his grief, taunts at school and his Uncle Ted's heavy hand. When those pressures build into a major blowup, Michael takes off with Curtis in tow to the woodlands that were once his refuge.

Their timeless quest for both freedom and belonging is set against the spectacular backdrop of Newfoundland's Gros Morne National Park and postcard-pretty fishing villages such as Bauline. It's an adventure film based on a story that still resonates almost 35 years after it was first published, Ash said during a brief break from filming.

"Michael, at the start of the movie, he's really quick to judge people. But at the end of the movie he learns that you can't really judge people by how they look or by how they act at first sight."

"You definitely can learn from this book. Michael experiences being picked on by a big bully at school, and other children or kids can learn that it's not a good thing to do. It's another way to reach out about bullying."

He flashed a wide grin as he talked about the thrill of making his first feature film after playing parts in local theatre.

Ash and 12-year-old Douglas Sullivan of St. John's, who plays Curtis, were selected after months of auditions around the province.

It's the second time Parker has filmed in Newfoundland after her role 10 years ago with William Hurt and Andy Jones in the film adaptation of Newfoundland author Ed Riche's book Rare Birds.

Her friendship and collaboration with Hold Fast co-producer and screenwriter Rosemary House brought her back to the Rock right after 10 months of filming the new TV series The Firm, based on John Grisham's best-selling novel.

"I really love Newfoundland. It's an incredibly special place and the people are amazing," she said from Toronto. "I've always just found it a very moving place and a very creative place."

Parker's character Aunt Ellen "is essentially a woman who's married to a very controlling man who has rage issues."

When headstrong Michael enters that volatile family mix, a battle of wills erupts that many teenagers will recognize, said House.

"The struggle for independence, to stand up for yourself, the struggle to understand your own place in the world, the whole idea about making friends, understanding what friendship is, and understanding the worth of other individuals as you're trying to come to terms with who you are yourself."

'I just laugh all the way to the bank every day': Snooki

Guidettes forever.

With meatball baby on the way, Snooki doesn't care what the haters say

Nicole (Snooki) Polizzi says she doesn't care what anyone says, she's ready to be a parent.

"I know I'm ready, I'm excited, I can't wait and this is gonna change my life and you know I'm totally 100 per cent on board with everything that's going on," she said.

Polizzi is due in September with her first child with fiancé Jionni LaValle. She was newly pregnant while filming her Jersey Shore spinoff with Jenni (JWoww) Farley, Snooki and JWoww. It airs Thursdays on MTV at 10 p.m. EDT.

Polizzi, 24, and Farley, 26, talk about critics, their friendship and babies.

Snooki, what was it like filming your show while pregnant?

Polizzi: I was in my first trimester. Usually during that time you're very tired, you get sick a lot so I was just basically tired a lot and I was grumpy.

Farley: But, you've got to understand also this girl is used to sleeping until 3 o'clock in the afternoon from being hung over so it was just a different type of tired that I'm used to.

Polizzi: Yeah, instead of me being hung over I was just pregnant and resting.

How do your boyfriend and fiancé get along? (Farley is in a relationship with Roger Mathews.)

Farley: Roger and Jionni really like each other...

Polizzi: It's really easy that they get along because we're gonna be with them for the rest of our lives.

Farley: They have to get along because our babies are gonna have babies. We've decided. So I have to have a boy and she has to have a girl no matter how many kids we pop out so two end up together.

What if they don't like each other in that way?

Farley: Just reproduce. Use a turkey baster.

Polizzi: Or a one-night stand.

Farley: I want our blood mixed!

Nicole, has it been hard dealing with scrutiny over your pregnancy?

Polizzi: I mean I really don't give a crap what anyone thinks about me and I haven't since day one. So, people think I'm not fit to be a parent. I don't care what you think, you know what I mean?

Farley: But I think for you and I think for all of us it's the factor to love to prove someone wrong so they can, like, say anything they want because Nicole is just gonna prove them wrong and then kind of like laugh at it at the end.

Polizzi: I just laugh all the way to the bank every day (laughter.)

You're best friends now but in the first episode of Jersey Shore we saw things didn't start off so smoothly. (Polizzi got very drunk and ended up passing out while her other

roommates went out.)

Polizzi: The first time I did meet Jenni at the shore I definitely loved her. I liked the look of her. She's really pretty and was someone I could kick it with but she wasn't that nice to me.

Farley: She scared me. I was like what is this little thing?

Polizzi: I was already two drinks down...

Farley: She was coming at me like a rabid dog. I went the opposite way. She was giddy and excited to be on TV and I was shy. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Adding Canadiana to a scary sci-fi world

Victor Webster. Up-and-coming actor talks about policing the mean streets of Vancouver on Continuum

scene@metronews.ca

From his electrically-charged performance as the heroic mutant Brennan Mulwray in the sci-fi TV series Mutant X to the sword-wielding warrior Mathayus in the feature-length tale The Scorpion King 3: Battle for Redemption, Victor Webster has always been a natural when it comes to playing the good guy who sticks up for what he believes in.

Currently, the Calgary-born actor can be seen playing Vancouver police detective Carlos Fonnegra in the hit Canadian-made sci-fi/police drama Continuum. His character partners up with a colleague from the future, 2077, City Protective Services (CPS) Officer Kiera Cameron, who, together with a group of death row terrorists, travels back in time to the present day.

"Carlos is rather intense and by the book, but I also wanted him to be someone who you could go out and have a beer with," explains the actor. With Carlos it's a matter of knowing when to get down to business and allowing your emotions to get away from you a little bit.

In Continuum's first season opener, A Stitch in Time, Kiera Cameron (Rachel Nichols) is witnessing the execution of a terrorist cell, including its leader Edouard Kagame (Tony Amendola). But something happens seconds before the terrorists are supposed to be put to death, and they are transported back to Vancouver 2012. She joins forces with Carlos — who is unaware of her true identity — to find the terrorists before their actions alter the future.

"From the very beginning Carlos is quite skeptical of Kiera," says Webster. "He can tell that something's wrong and what she says is not all true. "As the season goes on, she proves invaluable as far as having Carlos' back," continues the actor. "Kiera is there for him on more than one occasion and vice versa. He comes to her rescue as well throughout the season."

"Because of this, I think Carlos has had to learn that even though he might not have all the answers, he still must continue to do his job, which is odd for him because he's used to having all his ducks in a row.

Although he holds a black belt in Tao Kwon Do, Webster felt his character should defend himself in other ways when not armed with a gun. "Having grown up in Colombia, Carlos wouldn't have been a martial artist," he notes. "He would have been a boxer. Boxing is huge in the Latin culture, and being part Latin myself I understand that."

"I wanted my character to know how to box, and growing up in Canada, he would have played hockey as well. So a lot of the physical things that you see Carlos do are hockey related — throwing people around, shoulder-checking them, pulling a guy's jersey over his head and punching him, and, of course, boxing."

Victor Webster CONTRIBUTED

Alec Baldwin

Note to paparazzi: Don't mess with Alec Baldwin

Alec Baldwin insists he did not punch a photographer in New York recently, but he doesn't deny making physical contact with the man in question.

"There was a person in front of me and he was blocking him. And the guy lunged and almost hit me in the teeth with the lens of the camera. So I just pushed the guy away," Baldwin says in an interview with Charlie Rose. Baldwin also takes issue with the very nature of paparazzi: "We make ourselves available as an obligation per our contract to our employers to represent the product and help to sell the product. And then when I walk out the door, that's over," he insists.

Sacha has to behave in the U.S.

To hear Sacha Baron Cohen, he has to tread lightly when in the U.S. or risk deportation. "There are towns in certain states that I can't shoot in. If I get arrested my visa could be taken away," he tells the Sunday Express in an interview, citing an incident filming Bruno in which a hotel manager called the police and Cohen escaped via a fire escape in high heels. But the trouble apparently began when he was making Borat years earlier: "They had so many complaints that there was a Middle Eastern man driving through America in an ice-cream van that the FBI assigned a team to us," Cohen says. But a rep for Cohen denies all the details his client mentioned.

Johnny Depp and Vanessa Paradis ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Boredom blamed for Depp split

MONICA
scene@metronews.ca

Johnny Depp and Vanessa Paradis are staying quiet about their separation — meaning "inside sources" and "close friends" are extra busy.

According to one source, the reason the ultra-famous, continent-hopping couple broke up after 14 years is pretty much the same reason us mortals call it quits: boredom, with a side of sparkly things in the distance.

"He was bored senseless with her, being with Vanessa was making him miserable," a questionable friend tells Radar Online.

"The spark had gone, and there was nothing left. Johnny just wants more from life and believes Vanessa deserves to be happier too. He's not embroiled in some hot and heavy new romance and he has no plans to jump straight into something straight away, but he is keen to have some fun again."

If nothing else, the fun part seems to be true. After performing with the Black Keys at the MTV Movie Awards, Depp's been spotted out late in Hollywood with Marilyn Manson.

It's times like this we're glad we're not artistic millionaires. Can you imagine having to try new things and party with rock stars every time your life got boring? We can barely find motivation to juice the limes.

Katy Perry

'I still believe in love and marriage': Katy Perry

Despite a heartbreaking divorce from Russell Brand after 14 months of marriage, Katy Perry is keeping positive.

"I still believe in love and marriage. I've just learned lessons along the way. I regret nothing," she tells the Hollywood Reporter. Still, it wasn't easy being on tour while her marriage was suddenly falling apart.

"What was going on in my personal life was so overwhelming that I had to bend over to let those tears fall straight out of my eye sockets and not my false lashes just as I'm about to go up on that ramp and sing Teenage Dream," she says.

"I had to smack myself across the face and say, 'These problems are my problems, they are not my audience's problems, learn to separate that.'"

Bieber tired of fans 'in his face'

Justin Bieber isn't always in the mood to indulge his adoring fans, as a group of them learned at the Toronto airport this week while Bieber waited for girlfriend Selena Gomez to arrive, according to Hollyscoop.

"Do I not have any right as a human being to sit and wait for my girlfriend?" he asked during a back-and-forth with some of the assembled fans demanding his attention, complaining that they'd been waiting all day to see him. "You say you're really my fans, why do you do this? I've had a long day too. I don't have to be nicer, you guys are in my face," Bieber replied.

I've never been much of a seasonal wine drinker. The thought of avoiding some bottles in favour of others because of the time of year has never made sense.

Sure, some wines have temperature issues. Now that summer has finally arrived, a heaping glass of full-bodied red can come across flabby and uninspired when it's hot.

I have to admit, though, summer is really the realm of whites: The kind of wines that refresh and thirst-quench without running amok all over your palate.

Some will suggest that a rich, dry Sauvignon Blanc is the king of summer. Others might choose an aromatic white like one made with Viognier or Chenin Blanc.

While all worthy contenders to the throne, riesling is my go-to warm weather white grape.

Schmitt Söhne's Fünf 5 Riesling ($9.95 - $13.99) is ripe and relaxed with apple-oriented fruit that's drinkable right out of its powder white bottle (OK, maybe with a straw).

The great thing about riesling is it's food friendly. It will help wash down everything from barbecue fare and seafood to more exotic menus inspired by Asia, India and, especially, Mexico.

Grill treats, nom, nom, nom. SUBMITTED

Traditionally, summer is a time for men to show their alpha side by getting territorial over their barbecue cooking space while sporting a ridiculous apron. It's a primal thing: raw meat, fire gazing and alcohol.

Stereotypes aside, barbecuing is globally popular and perhaps one of the few occasions that you won't complain when you're presented with a charred carcass.

However, there are ways that we can improve. Yes, gentlemen, barbecuing is not an innate skill. Chef Ben Bartlett explains why there's more to the cuisine than plonking raw meat onto a scorching grill.

Bartlett says, "It's about the flavours from the wood, marinates and spices. Flavoured woods like cherry and apple or oak add a great smokey depth to meats."

There are also some really simple things that we can do to make sure that the meat is properly cooked. The chef suggests, "If you use coals, heap them up into a pyramid add fresh fuel to the edge and push inwards — it creates a really even cooking platform. Secondly wait till your wood or coal goes ashen grey to avoid flare-ups."

The U.K.-based BBQ supremo continues, "Take your meat out 30 minutes before you cook, so that it reaches room temperature — it'll cook more evenly this way. You want to achieve a core temperature of 75 F." METRO WORLD NEWS

Yakupov shakes off KHL questions

NHL draft. Projected No. 1 pick reassures GMs that his goal is to play in NHL

The question comes up often in Nail Yakupov's meetings with NHL scouts and general managers. And even though the 18-year-old Russian is still learning English, he can't help but tense up the second he hears the letters "KHL."

The player projected to be the likely No. 1 pick when the NHL draft gets underway in Pittsburgh on Friday understands why he's continually asked how committed he is to playing in North America.

"In the draft they don't

"I say just what I feel inside and I say I want to play in the NHL.... It's not my deal what teams think, if they don't trust me or not. I want to play in NHL."

Projected No. 1 pick Nail Yakupov, who has repeatedly been responding to questions of whether he wants to play in the NHL or the KHL in his native Russia.

want to wonder if some player is going to KHL," Yakupov said. "They just want (us to) play in NHL and work hard."

Yakupov is growing tired of repeating himself, but skepticism is part of the territory now that the once-fertile pipeline between Russia and the NHL has started to dry up. The big-time paydays — not to mention shorter schedule — of the Kontinental Hockey League has many Russian stars opting to stay home rather than lace up their skates halfway around the world.

All Yakupov can do is shrug his shoulders and stress — again and again — that he prefers the Stanley Cup to Gagarin Cup, the one awarded to KHL champions.

So do two other players with Russian ties counted among the top forwards available, Alex Galchenyuk and Mikhail Grigorenko. All three pose high-risk, high-reward scenarios. If clubs get skittish, defenceman Ryan Murray from Regina Canada could rise all the way to the top spot.

The Edmonton Oilers have the No. 1 pick for the third straight year and while general manager Steve Tambellini says he's "comfortable" holding onto it, he's not ruling out shipping the selection elsewhere if another team provides a package that would give the struggling franchise an immediate lift.

Though the five-foot-11, 185-pound Yakupov insists he's ready to play now, some teams remain concerned if Yakupov and other high-profile players with Russian ties will bother playing in the NHL at all. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NHL. Things aren't so clear for Oilers' Tambellini with third No. 1 draft pick

THE HOCKEY NEWS
Ryan Kennedy
edmonton@metronews.ca

I've given up predicting what Oilers GM Steve Tambellini will do. It's a mug's game. However you feel about the job he's done in Edmonton, you gotta admit he keeps you on your toes, which makes the 2012 draft the most intriguing of the past three for not only Oilers fans, but everybody in the hockey world.

When Tambellini took Taylor Hall first overall in 2010, there was no question about the decision, as good as Tyler Seguin has been in Boston. When Ryan Nugent-Hopkins was selected with the top pick last year, there was a legitimate argument that defenceman Adam Larsson would have made more sense for a team that already had Hall, Jordan Eberle and Magnus Paajarvi up front. This year, it would really make sense for Edmonton to kick off the proceedings by taking a defenceman — Everett's Ryan Murray being the top candidate — but there's left winger Nail Yakupov gumming up the works by being the best player available, a favoured phrase among NHL GMs.

The prevailing wisdom among some of Tambellini's peers is to take Yakupov — who broke Steven Stamkos's franchise record for rookie scoring as a member of the Ontario Hockey League's Sarnia Sting — and worry about roster composition later. Perhaps Paajarvi and Sam Gagner become the trading chips that net the Oilers a couple legitimate NHL defencemen, which they sorely need. Gagner is a bit tricky as a restricted free agent in need of a new deal, but with enough savvy and timing, Tambellini could tailor the contract as a trade-friendly pact.

That leaves Edmonton with a top-six forward corps of Hall, the Nugent-Hopkins, Eberle, Yakupov and veteran Alex Hemskley with one slot to fill (it doesn't sound like Ryan Smyth is coming back, but if there's anyone less predictable than Tambellini, it's Smyth). Pretty fun stuff.

Yakupov has been compared to Pavel Bure on the ice thanks to his dynamic goal-scoring ability, but I'm going to throw out another comparison: Alex Ovechkin. Not in the style they play the game, but in their charisma and passion. Yakupov is a delight to interview and always fun in a press scrum. He loves the game and does his best to communicate despite being a work in progress when it comes to English. If he does come to Edmonton, you'll love him. Even more so if the Oilers can swing some deals to get more defencemen in town.

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

Friends and work colleagues will ask for your opinions today, because they know you will tell them the truth. Don't be too brutal though.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

Stick with what you know and trust. The planets warn that if you change, you will make a mistake and damage your reputation for efficiency.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20. If you follow a hunch today, you will be delighted with the results. However, if someone else wants you to follow their hunches, you must decline.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

Make your opinions known. Mercury in your sign gives you insights that other people do not possess, so speak up no matter how unpopular some of your ideas might be.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22.

Something that just a few days ago seemed too much for you, will look remarkably easy today.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.

You've made enough concessions of late and now you must get tough with people who are abusing your generous nature.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

An issue you have been struggling with for several weeks will resolve itself today. Even so, you should give some thought as to why it took such a long time to be worked out.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

Creative activities will work out well today, but they will work out even better if you bring people into your confidence and let them know what it is you are trying to accomplish.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

Someone in a position of authority will give you the chance to prove yourself today and you must seize it with both hands.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20.

What happens today will answer at least some of the questions you have been asking in recent weeks.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18.

You would like to go back and undo a mistake that had far-reaching consequences, but you know that's not possible. All you can do is learn from the situation.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

You may not get along with a someone but you'll have to work closely with each other today. The planets indicate there is a karmic attachment between you. SALLY BROMPTON
